4. Anton Georg Apponyi (Oponec, 1751 - Wien 1817)

Bibliotheca Apponiana

Autograph letter signed, dated am 9 October 1811 by the count of Oponice. Apponyi library in Oponice was born thanks to unaffected love for book. It was established in Vienna by patron and count of Oponice Anton Grorg Apponyi. He had loved books and collected them for all his life. Apponyi collected during his life more than 30.000 precious books - for comparison today there is only half of them in library, about 15.000... The library had more than 400 incunabula at the end of the 18th century! Very precious was work of „Prudentii Aurelii Opera“ written on parchment from the 9th century, Dante's „Allighieri commedia col commento“ with engravings of Sandro Botticelli or famous Bible from Johannes Gutenberg from 1435 that are nowadays considered to be the absolute gems of European librarianship... That was the library in the glory of its period. When the founder Anton Georg Apponyi died in 1817, the library was in danger of downfall for the first time. From his 9 children only count Anton Apponyi (1782-1852) – patron and diplomat, was interested in saving the library. Finally, he saved the library and transferred it from Vienna to Bratislava. The opening ceremony took place in 1827 and at request of count Apponyi it became the first public library in Slovakia. In London, from where it used to receive precious English press, it was known as „Public National Library of Presbourg“. The library was operating in Bratislava for 19 years, it is a paradox that then the town refused to support it financially and Apponyi transferred it from Bratislava to Oponice to Renaissance manor house where it was supposed to stay forever. Apponyi addresses a long letter to a gentleman, discussing about art books and art. 4 pp. In-8.

Dec. 3, 1964

Dear Professor Castellano:

The only reference to the problem of Kolmogorov's statistic for discrete distributions known to me is:

Paul Schmid: "On the Kolmogorov and Smirnov limit theorems for discontinuous distribution functions",
Annals of Mathematical Statistics v. 29, 1958, pp. 1011-1027.

This paper by Schmid stresses mainly the limit theorems and I believe that it does not answer the problem for finite sample sizes as you have formulated
it in the seminar of November 24.

Yours sincerely,
J. W. Birnbaum

55. Albert Calmette (Nice, 1863 - Paris, 1933)

BCG vaccine against tuberculosis

Typed letter signed in German, dated Paris le 30 November 1931 by the French physician, creator of the BCG vaccine against tuberculosis. Calmette addresses Walter Zadek in Berlin, expressing his opinion on the works of the German physician and pharmaceutical manufacturer Günther Enderlein: «...die Arbeiten des Herrn Prof. Enderlein, Kustos am Zoologischen Museum der Berliner Universität, sind mir bekannt. Weil Sie mir die Ehre antun, mir meine Meinung über diese Arbeiten zu fragen, so kann ich Ihnen nur mitteilen, dass ich mich ganz der vom hervorragenden Gelehrten Prof F. Neufeld, dem Direktor des Instituts Robert Koch neulich in der Deutschen medizinischen Wochenschrift (Nr. 47, 20 Nov. 31. S. 1931) veröffentlichten Stellungnahme anschliesse. Der Herr Professor Enderlein kann gewiss kein exakten bakteriologischen Kenntnisse beanspruchen. Die Technik der Reinkulturen ist ihm unbekannt, so dass er unglaubliche Fehlern zum Opfer fällt, und man seinem Schlussfolgerungen betreffs Bakterientransformationen oder – Mutationen unmöglich Wert beimessen kann. Es gibt in der ganzen Welt keinen einzigen Bakteriologen, ausser dem von Prof. Enderlein genannten (dessen Kompetenz von Prof. Neufeld genügend gekennzeichnet worden ist), der seine Auffassungen für bewiesen hält...».

Translation: «...the works of Prof. Enderlein, curator at the Zoological Museum of the Berlin University, are known to me. Since you do me the honour to ask my opinion about these works, I can only inform you that I fully agree with the opinion recently published by the outstanding scholar Prof F. Neufeld, director of the Robert Koch Institute in the Deutsche Medizinische Wochenschrift (No. 47, 20 Nov. 31. p. 1931). Professor Enderlein certainly cannot claim any exact bacteriological knowledge. The technique of pure cultures is unknown to him, so that he falls prey to unbelievable errors, and it is impossible to attach any value to his conclusions concerning bacterial transformations or mutations. There is not a single bacteriologist in the whole world, except the one mentioned by Prof. Enderlein (whose competence has been sufficiently marked by Prof. Neufeld), who considers his views to be proven....». 1 p. ¼. 91. Camille Doucet (Paris, 1812 - id., 1895)

Parisian Theaters

9 autograph letters signed, addressed to various correspondents, dated between 1838 and 1878 from the French poet and playwright, elected to the Académie Française in 1865.

- A. “16 août 1838” Doucet addresses the M. Borel de Bretizel. “Le père de famille dont vous m'avez permis de vous rappeler le nom est un Sr. Loapre ou Louapre ...”. 1 p.

B. “Paris le 3 9bre 1862”. Doucet writes to a friend about an invitation to ask Count Baciocchi for Mr. de Sacy. 4 pp.

C. “Palais des Tuileries, 25 avril 1868”. To Mr. Armand S. de Sacy. Doucet urgently wants some confidential information about a young man “... Je tiendrais beaucoup à en recevoir d'intimes sur sa personne, son caractère, son esprit, etc (...) pour une question de mariage (...) ce n'est pas son bon côté que je vous demande c'est son mauvais...”. 2 1/4 pp.

D. “Palais des Tuileries, 4 mai 1868”. To Mr. Armand S. de Sacy. “... le projet dont je vous parlais il y a 10 jours, est aujourd'hui abandonné...” announces Doucet, who therefore asks his correspondent to stop dealing with this case (it was information about a young man, with a view to a marriage) “... Votre silence, m'a fait penser que vous n'aviez pas de bons renseignements à me donner ...”.^{3/4p.}

E. “Palais des Tuileries, le 3 mai 1869”. Doucet addresses a lady “... Je vous répéterai ce que vous a dit le Vicomte à moins d'événements extraordinaire la reprise pourra avoir lieu dans 4 ou 5 mois...”. 1 p.

F. “17 7mbre 1878”. À M. Armand S. de Sacy. The writer asks his correspondent to excuse his absence at the next session of the Academy. An impromptu and very boring visit prevented him from going to Paris. He asks him to sit in his place and write the minutes. 4 pp.

G. s.d. “Le Jeudi en huit ... le 26”. Regarding the reconstitution of the Academy Bureau, Doucet proposed to “... prendre pour un chancelier un de nos Provinciaux O. Fenillet, par exemple ou Laprade ...”. 2 pp.

H. s.d. Doucet sends thanks on business cards “... j'ai déjà lu plus de la moitié du 1er Volume. C'est fort intéressant. Introduction excellente. C.D.” 1 p.

123. Jules Guérin (Boussu, 1801 - Hyères, 1886)

Orthopaedic science

Letter signed, dated "À la Muette, le 4 juin 1842", by the Belgian doctor who made a major contribution to the development of orthopaedic science, co-founder with Charles Pravaz of the Institut orthopaedic de Paris in 1835. Guérin writes a report on a note that Doctors [Maurizio] Buffalini (1787-1875) and Vannoni sent him on the dislocation of a girl's femur : "Malgré l'accident qui paraît être arrivé à cette enfant quelque temps après la naissance, je ne suis pas convaincu que la luxation ne soit pas congénitale, car la dissection normale du membre, et l'étendue du mouvement, s'accordent bien plus avec une luxation originelle, qu'avec une luxation ancienne traumatique. Le fait du rétablissement du membre luxé dans la longueur sous l'influence des tractions, serait un nouvel indice d'une luxation congénitale, si ce rétablissement n'était pas dû à un abaissement temporaire de la hanche de ce côté. Ce point de diagnostic est très important à établir, car il doit décider du degré de curabilité de la difformité. Indépendamment donc, des questions fort précises, qu'on me fait l'honneur de me soumettre, il est indispensable de résoudre préalablement celle de savoir si la luxation a été le résultat de la chute de l'enfant, ou de l'action musculaire, comme cela a lieu dans le sein de la mère. On pourra arriver à éclaircir ce point en affirmant que l'allongement du membre par les tractions ou l'action musculaire volontaire, est bien le résultat du glissement de la tête fémorale...". 3 pp. (20 cm x 25,2 cm). 136. Adam Ignaz Heunisch (1658 - 1718) [François-Louis de Bourbon-Conti] (Paris 1664 - ib., 1709)

Lot of four long autograph letters signed by Adam Ignaz Heunisch (1658 - 1718) concerning the title of resident at the Court of Prince Conti in Issy-les-Moulineaux (the text is transcribed as is). A. Vienne le 23me de février 1701. "...la bonté généreuse, que vous avez toujours témoigné d'avoir pour moi, me flatte de l'espérance Monseigneur, que vous aurez toujours mes intérêts au Coeur, principalement cette intention, que vous savez que j'ai, de pouvoir servir un jour Son Alt. Roy.le avec le titre glorieux de son résident à la cour d'Issy, et comm'à cette heure dans l'affaire de Filattiera, comm'aussi dans la matière du diplôme obtenu de sa Maj.te Imp.le, pour les autres fiefs Imperiaux...". 1 p. 1/2. In-4. B. Vienne le 9me d'Avril 1701. "...Pour les crédi[n]tiales que S.A.R.le envoyeroit pour le soutien du Caracter, dont elle me revêtirait, ça serait premièrement pour l'Empereur et le Roy, auxquelles S. A. R.le notifierait ça, en les suppliant de me recevoir pour tel, avec toutes les graces et prerogatives, que le Caracter d'un resident porte avec soi...". 2 pp. In-4.. C. Vienne le 16 Avril 1701. "...j'espère cependant que le diplôme en soit déjà expédié, ce qu'étant une fois fait, les lettres crédi[n]tiales le pourraut toujours suivre...". 1 p. In-4. D. Vienne le 21 de Mai 1701. "...il y a bien deux mois que S.A.R.le m'a honoré d'une lettre pleine de grace (...) qu'elle s'est [plu] à faire de mes très humbles services rendues dans la Cause de Filattiera, et comm'elle m'a encore fait espérer par cela, des marques de grace par la poste suivante, comme j'aurais à entendre par son envoyé Mr. le Marquis de Martelli (...) Il est bien vrai, que comme les Marquis de Mala[spina] avaient fait des nouvelles instances pour obtenir destitutionem in integre contre la sentence échue contre eux in contumaciam, je m'étais imaginé, que S.A.R.le en voula premièrement voir la fin, avant qu'elle me fasse sentir les marques de sa grace (...) comme j'ai peu remarquer par le dit Mr. de Martelli, cette grace dont S. A. R.le me veut honorer, consiste dans ce titre glorieux de son resident à la Cour d'Issy...". The House of Conti, a younger branch of the House of Bourbon and descendant of the House of Condé, owned numerous properties, including the Château d'Issy, now destroyed and replaced by the French Playing Card Museum, of which one tower still remains. The château was purchased on February 4, 1699 by François-Louis de Bourbon-Conti for 140,000 livres. Issy was marshy land at the time. It was a Renaissance-style château with extensive gardens designed by Le Nôtre. 4 pp. In-4. € 200 trovar udienza. Finalmente l'afferrai. Ecco coll'amabile persona sua gentilezza verso di me, (la quale - sia detto fra di noi - è dovuta a un ostinato mio capriccio di voler stare dritto e studiar l'indipendenza, senza pagare omaggio al Giudeo Capitolino) si rallegrò dell'avermi occasione a compiacermi, e parve d'intendersi vincoramente per quella cosa, gli incredibile però di non aver rapporto a M. Lord Nugent; poi avvenne che l'affare in questa guisa man-cherrebbe di un carattere ufficiale, e che piuttosto voi doveste mandar qualche vostra opera al Comitè di Corfù, o recarvi in persona

a quella città. Intanto mi promisi di voler conferire intorno a voi con una Signora di Corfù, Lady Adams, che in Roma si trattiene. Il giorno dopo io gli manderò con una mia lettera il vostro libretto sul metodo intellettuale.
Ora spero ch'egli sta leggendolo, se n'ha l'occhio, - ed io aspetto. State certo che non lascierò cadere l'affare, se vi vieto risoluto di peroristervi. Temei sapere, quali passi inoltre avete fatti. Comunque si sia, sono contento almeno dell'avuta opportunità di rendermi noto a Bunsen, e credo che forse

vi gioverebbe di visitarlo e conoscerlo perso-nalmente. Bunsen è un uomo attizzabile [se la Corte ammette le parole] e d'una auto-rità non immutata. - Se poi volete andare a Corfù, vi posso procurare delle raccomandazioni da un amicissimo mio, il Dottor Franz (già professore nell'università di Monaco, è interprete del Governo Bavarese nella Grecia) ora in Roma e membro dell'Istituto archeologico. —

Adunque, perdonate, cosa è mai diffi-cilevi di me. La mia speranza di vedervi in Tivoli, s'indugia di più. Ancora le libereni tengono in galera. Non sto troppo bene di salute e provo sovente una puerile ma
sonia, pensando sul poco che m'è concorso di far. - Nella gazzetta d'Augusta, un mese fa, lessi un articolo eccellente sulla filosofia di Hegel, o piuttosto sulla rapporto di essa allo Stato, alla società ed alle scienze, un saggio, che parrava per 4 fogli, maestrevolmente trattato e colla più perfetta imparzialità.
Non posso indovinarne l'autore, che dovrebbe essere non già un filosofo, ma qualche uomo di Stato e forse di alto rango. Mi dispiace che voi non leggete il Federico. —

Con sincera stima d'affezione
tutto il vostro
Theod. Heyse.

J. Jolly

Neuroftypus und Gross Cystine / Thalz!'

Am Sonnabend Morgen fand erneut Fieber mit einem Kopf-und Nackenschmerzen, die sich zu einem starken Schmerz im Hinterkopf ausweiteten. Er war nicht in der Lage, aufzustehen. Er fühlte eine Absonderung und eine trockene Brust. Sein Kopf war sehr schweißig, seine Augen waren geschlossen, seine Lippen waren blau und er hustete viel. Er war sehr schwach und konnte kaum aufrecht sitzen. Sein Puls war langsam und schwach. Er fühlte sich sehr unwohl und hatte Müdigkeit.

Mit dem Bettlaken und einer aufgerollten Kugelwolle versuchte er sich aufzuhelfen, um nicht einzuschlafen.

Erst am Nachmittag kam ein Arzt und bestätigte die Diagnose. Er verschrieb Medikamente und riet zur Ruhe.

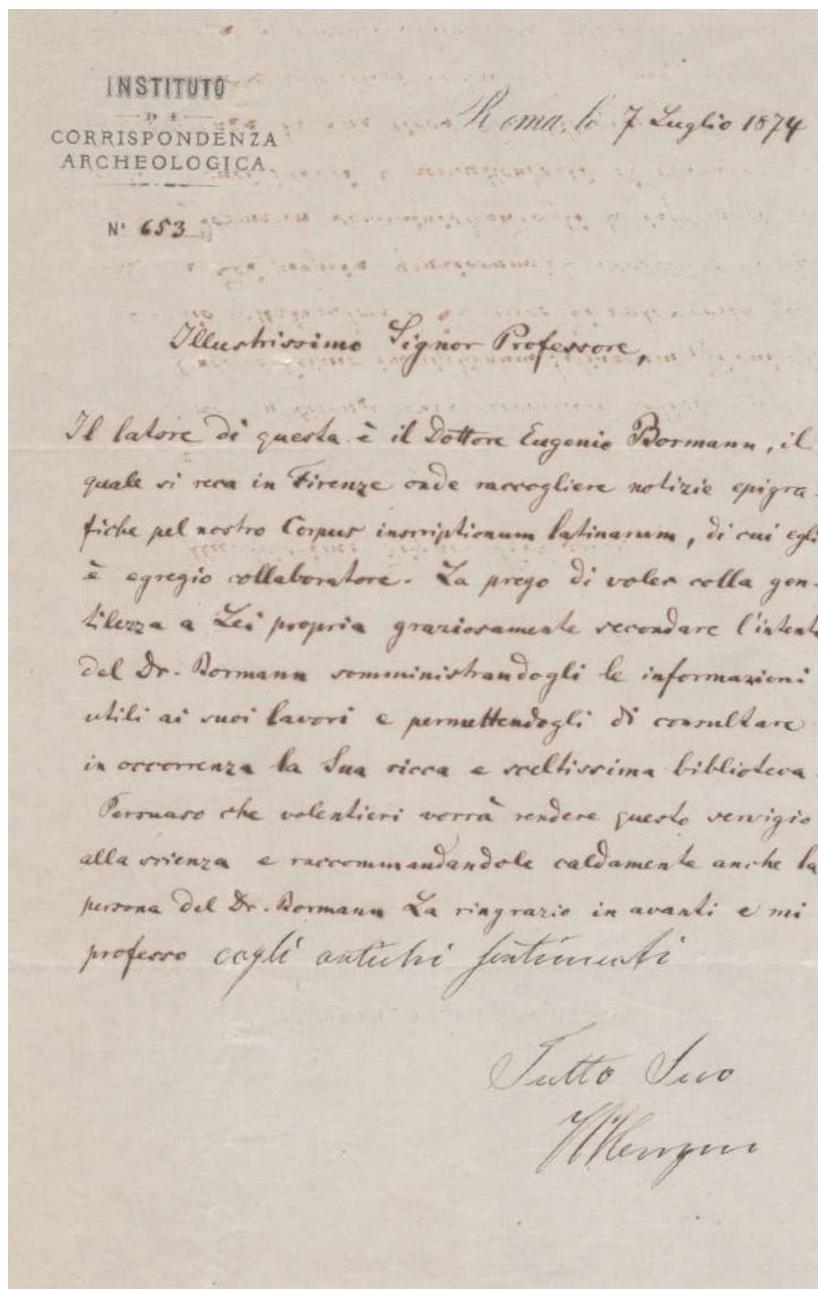

Er starb am 28. November 1860.

Saint Domingue

Letter signed "Le Cte de Villeblanche, ancien député de St. Domingue" dated "Paris le 30 mai 1829". Villeblanche requests a hearing from the Minister, from the President of the "...Comité des anciens Colons de Saint Domingue... qui s'occupe des intérêts de cette Classe malheureuse des Français...", etc. Definitely lost in 1809 after a new Spanish occupation, the colony of Santo Domingo had found its independence in 1821, and more permanently in 1844. As early as 1809, there was no place there for the French settlers who had to leave the island by abandoning their property. It should be noted that the Earl of Villeblanche, their former deputy, who had acted as their spokesman to the central government, would die the following year, a few days after the revolution of July 1830. 1 p. Geneve

Two autograph letters signed by the Swiss writer, addressed a publisher. A. Naples 2 Avril. Monnier thanks his correspondent for his letter and sends him: "quelques numéros de la Patria contenant l'acte d'accusation contre [Bonaventura] Cenatiempo, Chmsten, etc. dont le procès doit se juger dans le courant de ce mois d'avril. Ce document pourrait être publié en appendice à la fin de notre petit volume pour prouver la complicité du parti bourbonien et de François dans le brigandage...". 1 p. In-8.

B. Naples, 14 Avril 1862. Monnier thanks his correspondent for having sent him copies of the recently published translation of his book: "...je m'applaudis vivement d'avoir eu affaire à vous et j'aurai à espérer que le succès de notre publication nous encouragera à des entreprises plus importantes (...) La traduction est excellente et je vous prie d'en féliciter de ma part bien vivement M. Puccioni...". 1 p. In-8.

The book in question is "Histoire du brigandage dans l'Italie méridionale" (Paris, Lévy 1862), just translated in Italian and published by Gaspero Barbèra in Florence. In the volume, Monnier investigates the recent chronicle facts related to banditry and the role played by the Bourbon in the diffusion of the banditry as a mean of boycotting the newly formed kingdom of Italy. € 200

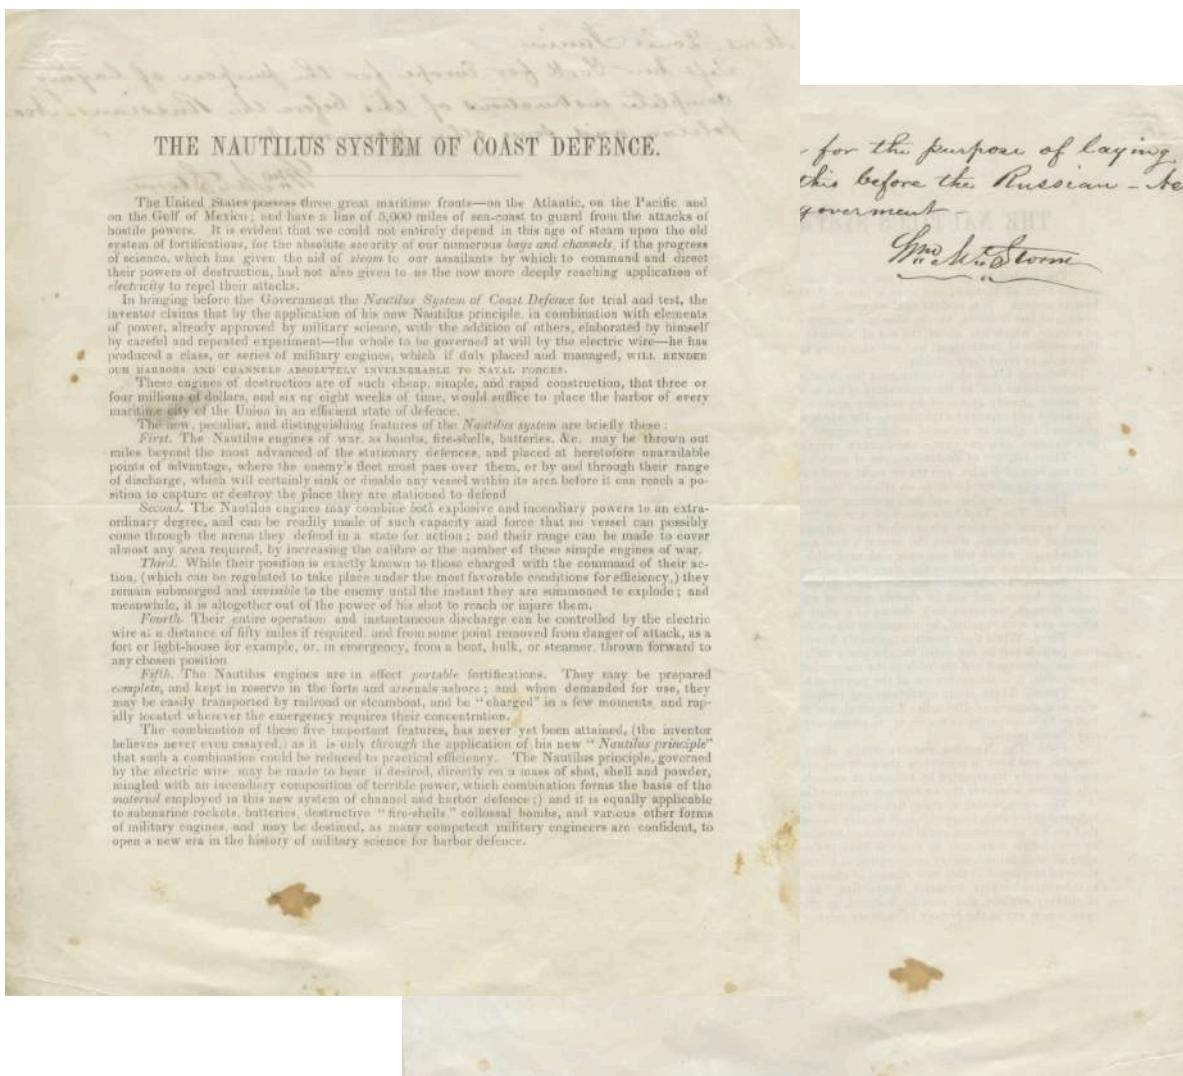

189. William Mont-Storm (New York 1826)

The Nautilus system of coast defence

Very rare and interesting printed document (1860 ca.) titled 'The Nautilus system of coast defence', in which is illustrated the innovative project for a defensive system of the Union's US coastline, based on new military technologies : "...In bringing before the government the Nautilus System of Coast Defence for trial and test, the inventor claims that by the application of his new Nautilus principle in combination with elements of power, already approved by military science, with the addition of others, elaborated by himself by careful and repeated experiment - the whole to be governed at will by the electric wire - he has produced a class, or series of military engines, which if duly placed and managed, will render our harbors and channels absolutely invulnerable to naval forces...". 1 p. (21 cm x 26,5 cm). On the verso, autograph lines and signature of the author, M. William Mont Storm. In 1850, William Storm had married Cora Hayner. Mrs. Cazneau obtained an appointment for her son in the New York Customs House working under Ann Stephens's husband, George. While at the Customs House, Storm registered twelve patents related to the use and safety of steam engines and improvements to revolving and breech loading firearms, plus a 262 submarine he called a "Nautilus system of coast defense," that was of great interest to both John A. Quitman and Jefferson Davis. His "peculiar mental condition" was symptomatic of manic-depression as he made and squandered fortunes and was in and out of mental institutions. Mrs. Cazneau had kept private her family life, but in 1856, at forty-nine years old and married six years, she had lost little of her spirit of adventure, her patriotism, or her hope of acquiring wealth

Mi rincresce di non aver una copia duplicata dell'Academy. Di quello avevo pubblicato estratti del Codice di Lord Vermon contenente il frammento del Comento del Bambaglioli, confrontati coi luoghi paralleli del 'Comento Anonimo'. Avevo anche veduto alla sfuggita il Codice originale Bembaglioliano nella Bibl. Colombina di Siviglia..." Translation: "I enclose an extract of the letter by Prof. Carl Witte regarding the discover of the identity of the so called Comento Anonimo and that of Bambaglioli. Unfortunately I do not had a duplicate copy of the Academy. I had published extracts of the Code by Lord Vermon containing the fragment of Bambaglioli's Comento, compared with parallel sections of the 'Comento Anonimo'. I also had a quick look at the original Bambaglioli Code in the Columbine Library in Seville...". 3 pp. in Italian. In fine condition.

A fun invitation to a Christmas dinner

Autograph letter signed "Louis Veuillot", dated "24 Xbre 1864", by the French writer and journalist, one of the greatest Catholic polemics of his time. Fun invitation to a Christmas dinner : "Monseigneur, Voici l'oracle que j'entends du fond désolé de ma cuisine : Un gentil pot-au-feu, du veau à la minute, un légume et deux faisans, ça fait un joli dîner... Je sens bien que nous sommes téméraires (the recipient of the letter having apparently provided the pheasants!), mais vous avouerez que nous sommes aussi très encouragés... Tâchez votre grand cœur et répondez... Vous ne pouvez pas imaginer l'effet de ces faisans tombant dans une cuisine comme la nôtre un jour de maigre absolu. Venez et contemplez ce spectacle. Le rayonnement de la cuisinière ne s'éteindra pas de quelques jours...". The letter seems to be addressed to Frédéric-Xavier-Ghislain de Mérôme (1820-1874), a Belgian prelate stationed in Rome, who was attributed a great influence on Pope Pius IXth's relations with Napoleon III's government. De Mérôme was as rebellious a spirit as Veuillot's and their political-religious commitments caused them many setbacks. 2 1/2 pp. (12 cm x 19 cm). In good condition.
